LAW ENFORCEMENT officers say the sound of handcuffs closing around your wrists is one never forgotten. Here, CHP Officer Michael Starr "arrests" CHS senior

'We don't want your business!' law enforcement tells students

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL HIGH School officials dreamed the impossible dream this week: A vision in which its students celebrating Prom Night stay off the juice and drive sober.

In legal circles, Carmel High School is known as having one of the most significant problems with student alcohol use in the county. Officials this week pulled out all the stops in attempting to raise student alcohol

"You think that jail is like on (TV sitcom) Barney Miller, but that's not how it works," said senior Scott (who wished to remain anonymous), arrested for drunken driving around the first of the year. "It smells; it's sick; it's not a pleasant place."

Indeed.

But Scott, speaking to members of the junior and senior classes, also admitted that if others are like him, they probably think it will always be the other guy that gets caught.

Scott continued to drive drunk each weekend last year, despite the fact that one of his best friends had been arrested twice for drunken driving, having almost totalled his

"That didn't even faze me," he said. "I didn't think I would get caught."

The fact is, Scott was one of about 5,300 people, many of them minors, cited for driving under the influence in Monterey County

Flanders Mansion gets a new 5-year lease on life

By NANCY HILLS

HREE YEARS ago, the city council was on the verge of putting the Flanders Mansion in Mission Trail Park on the auction block. Now it is issuing a five-year lease for its renovation and restoration, with a 50-year lease option to Carmel Heritage.

It may be the best rent in town: $1 a year. But, on the other hand, the tenant must take on renovation costs, an estimated $530,000.

Carmel Heritage has proposed to turn the elegant but slightly frayed mansion into an administrative headquarters or cooperative for Carmel artistic and cultural groups. It must also raise the money to renovate the 66-year-old 4,000-square-foot structure, which is in dire need of some major repairs.

A couple of the rooms are currently rented as a residence and to John Cunningham for the Carmel Art Association.

"The five-year period is generous of the city," said Carmel Heritage President Roger Newell. "We feel confident in that within that time span, (the work) can be done."

The promise of a 50-year lease, which will be granted if the five-year project is completed, allows Carmel Heritage to apply for some major nationwide grants, Newell added.

On May 1, the Carmel City Council voted in favor of the lease, which would be signed after the city staff and Carmel Heritage worked out some minor details. That has been done, Newell said May 8, and the lease is being reviewed by lawyers.

"We should take over the building on July 1," Newell said.

Once the lease is signed, Carmel Heritage will begin the steps necessary to raise the funds and establish agreements with other cultural and artistic groups in the area, Newell added.

The house was placed on the National Registry of Historical Sites in March 1989 and the estimated $530,000 price tag for work needed on the house was developed during the application process, explained preservationist Enid Sales.

Four engineers inspected the building, Sales said, including a specialist in earth-quake stability for historic masonry buildings. Though its designation as a historic building makes it exempt from most earthquake standards, the engineer still declared it in good shape.

Sales, a contractor herself, and architect Roger Larson also contributed to the estimate.

The house needs new plumbing, wiring and heating systems, as well as some roof repair and foundation work, painting and a few floors need replacing.

"There is no major structural work that needs to be done," she said.

That is a major point since one of the reasons the house was not used more intensively by the city in the past was it was believed to be structurally unstable.

Because it is designated an historical building, there can be no changes to the exterior of the building other than repairs.

"We have found a tile place outside of Sacramento, one of the few left in the country, and it designed the original tiles. That is quite a find in preservation, an original source," Newell said.

The interior will be rearranged to suit the needs of the collaborative, Newell said, though they will try to retain the integrity and atmosphere of the original design.

Newell believes that though the cost is high, they will be able to apply for funding for the project.

"The concept of using the building for arts and cultural groups makes the project very grantable," he said.

The concept, Newell said, which is still being refined, is to provide a place where arts and cultural groups can share administrative services and costs, such as a secretary or printing and copying services, and offices.

"Shared administrative costs is really needed by most groups," he said.

The house could also provide storage for artworks and artifacts because its unique structure keeps the temperature and humidity stable, a must for many sensitive objects.

The house is constructed of concrete blocks which are hollow in the middle. That creates a "dead air space which acts as an insulator." Sales said.

Newell said he does not anticipate that the collaborative would use the house for cultural events, such as art shows, because there is little parking at the site and it is located both in the park and surrounded by a residential neighborhood.

"Whatever we do, we will keep the neighbors in mind," he said.

IF THE lease is signed, it could mean the end to a multi-year controversy about what the city should do with the Flanders Mansion.

The city bought the house in 1972 for $275,000. The purchase included 1.91 acres of land that adjoined Mission Trail Park.

According to a report compiled by the planning staff in 1987, the house was built in 1924 by Paul and Grace Flanders and was used as a private residence until it became city property. Research indicates that it was designed by Henry Higby Gutterson, a major architect of his day whose works are still well-known in California.

Once in city hands, the conflict over what to do with the building began and studies and suggestions started proliferating.

According to a staff report, in 1973, the city council was told that the mansion needed about $61,000 in immediate repairs before it could be leased and another $31,000 in "non-urgent" repairs. The city allocated $16,500 for the work.

Through the years, it has been included in EIRs on the park and suggestions for its use or disuse ranged from tearing it down to selling it to either a tenant that would be proper for a park or as a private residence.

The last time that suggestion was broached was in 1987 when the city council discussed

Dream comes true

Dear Editor:

On Tuesday, May 15, an opening ceremony will be held to celebrate the completion of Vista Lobos, the property formerly owned by the Handley family. The official opening of the park and parking areas marks the culmination of many years of effort by the city council, the residents of the city and the city staff. I'd like to express my thanks and appreciation to all of those who participated in the pursuit and accomplishment of this dream.

A particular thank-you is owed to John and Robert Kirchenbauer. The Kirchenbauers have created and donated for the park the beautiful 12-foot long wooden picnic table which rests in the park area.

The Kirchenbauers' generosity in building and donating the table reflects the character and qualities of the people of our community which make Carmel a special place.

I invite everyone in the community to attend the opening ceremony which will be held on Tuesday, May 15, to welcome this new addition to the city family.

Who's responsible?

Dear Editor:

I just came home from a disquieting situation I found at the children's annex of the Harrison Library in Carmel on a Saturday morning. Three children had taken over the main reading room. They were running up and down playing and shouting as a few adults and children were trying to quietly read and look at books.

After I finished getting my information, I asked the librarian, who was busy sorting material at the checkout counter, "Wouldn't this be a good time to teach library manners to those children?" Her answer was, "Well, the parents are here." She went back to sorting her paperwork as I left. The children kept running and shouting.

I kept thinking, responsibility, responsibility. Who was responsible? Who was in charge of maintaining a library atmosphere? Do we still want the old-fashioned type of quiet atmosphere or, this being a library for children, should it evolve to a play-read-talk place, even yell place.

I think libraries should have a quiet atmosphere, because that's the nature of a book place. And if this is a criterion for a library, then the librarian at the children's annex was just sort of occupying space and not doing a librarian's job.

The parents, of course, should have assumed their responsibility instead of dumping their duties as a parent on the librarian. I hope they don't do this dumping on the school systems their kids go to. Too often parents let the librarian, or the store clerk, or the waiter, or the teacher tell their kids how to behave in public. And responsibility gets put on hold once again.

Civilization as we know it takes another little small step for mankind, only backwards.

Natural tranquility

Dear Editor:

I recently had occasion to visit relatives in your city. One morning I awoke early and went for a jog. I didn't really know where I was going but I ended up running on the Hatton Canyon trail.

What a peaceful bit of natural tranquility. I walked and jogged over to the Barnyard and back marveling at the peace and quiet on my return.

I was informed that this area is slated for a freeway. The first thought I had was that a governor could name it after himself or a political crony. After all if there is no development, there is nothing to paint to; no "beautiful freeway" that was once a beautiful trail.

Does our society exist for two-legged human beings, or four-wheeled vehicles?

Christopher Comb Kentfield

Earthy thanks

Dear Editor:

Many thanks to Sam Farr and Leon Panetta for all their work for Earth Day 1990. They were very helpful to us when we were trying to get the word out.

Thanks also to Lorna Moffat of Carmel who organized a lot of Earth Day events in our area. Also thanks to Jay Barston — Rev. of Monterey Presbyterian Church for his group up at MPC.

Thanks to Thunderbird Bookstore for their great display of environmental books and also Books Inc., Pilgrims Way, and Brentano's for their super environmental displays.

Also thanks to my mother, Barbara Eliot, who paid for all the printing, duplicating, flyers, posters, fact sheets, etc. that I made for Earth Day and she paid for all the mailing — which was awesome.

Thanks also to the countless thousands around the world who helped Earth Day be successful.

Rev. Susan Ashley Carmel

Show leadership

Dear Editor:

I applaud the enthusiastic support shown by supervisors Sam Karas and Karin Strasser Kauffman for local Earth Day 1990 activities.

How ironic that at the same time they continue to support Caltrans' Hatton Canyon Freeway design. It should be of concern to them that this freeway will cause the destruction of one of our quickly disappearing resources that naturally regulates water flow, houses 160 acres of wildlife, 10,000 native Monterey pines, and large groves of oak trees.

As our local elected representatives, I would hope that they could show leadership in finding a less destructive way to solve this area's traffic problems.

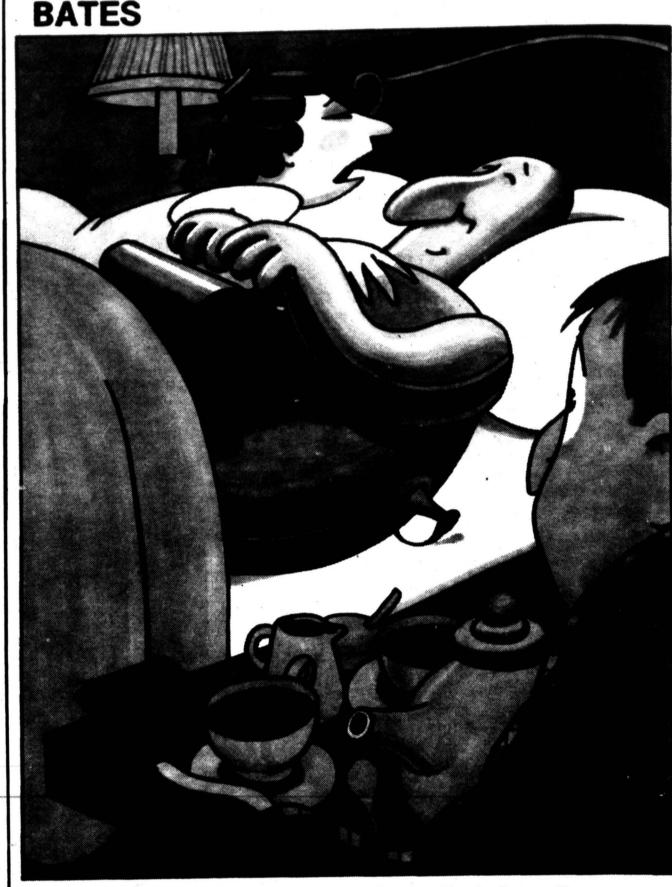

Saving the earth's environment might need to begin in our own backyard!

Help the animals

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to your article in the May 3rd issue: "SPCA puts call out to community for help." What a very sad — but wonderful, informative article. I am an animal lover — have five adopted animals from the SPCA myself — and really want to help.

I am asking animal lovers to lend me a hand so we can all pitch in to raise money for these poor and innocent animals. It is not fair that animals end up with irresponsible, uncaring owners that when they are tired of having pets, drop them off at the SPCA as if they wer garbage — thinking "Oh a good family will come get you." Well, wake up—read the statistics — chances are they will never make it out of there.

We, like a lot of people, can't help by ourselves financially — but, if our Carmel community could get together for a wonderful event, I'm sure we could raise money for these animals. Every bit helps them.

Please respond — "Animals, P.O. Box S-3096, Carmel, 93921 — if interested in helping.

Idle eyesore

Dear Editor:

I am very sorry that Fortier's Drug Store was allowed by the owners of the property to become a blight on the town. Why the Leidigs would allow the building to sit an idle eyesore for several months when, for a dozen dollars, they could have at least painted the windows and, at no cost, left the awning on the Dolores Street side. (It wouldn't suprise me if some high school art student would have gladly painted a few ocean scenes and creatures on the windows — cheap, if not just for the experience and exposure.)

Fortier's Drug served Carmel pretty well for almost 50 years through the considerable effort and dedication of George Fortier, since the early '40s, and Florence Berrey, since 1966. (Miss Berrey joined the operation back in 1947, advanced to share managership responsibilities, and assumed ownership after the death of George Fortier in 1966 when she purchased the shares from surviving family members who lived in different parts of the country.)

It is difficult for me to understand why the landlords would have such contempt for the town's appearance when Carmel has been very generous to them for many years. It is even more difficult to understand why city government allowed such arrogance to go unchecked for so long when a friendly parrot-like bird perched on a side street drew fire from the city for being a "safety hazard," and balloons used to celebrate the reopening of a popular restaurant on the same street were disallowed.

I would appreciate this letter being published so people could understand that neither Miss Berrey nor any Fortier was responsible for the indifferent attitude and behavior I've described.

Tree-cutting necessary say state parks officials

By DAVID LELAND

STATE OFFICIALS this week defended the cutting of a thicket of acacia trees at Carmel River State Beach as a necessary move in preserving plants indigenous to the area.

In fact, the move toward ridding the sandy bluff on the east side of the parking lot of exotic plants is mandated in a general plan governing Carmel River State Beach and Point Lobos, according to Jean Ferreira, resource ecologist with the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

"Our goal is to maintain the natural plant community," she said, adding that acacia trees originate somewhere in the South Pacific. "Acacia does not fit in because it is an exotic."

The stand of 6- to 10-foot acacia trees will likely be replaced with primrose, beach bur and sand verbena, which are native to the lower dunes near the ocean, Ferreira said.

Carmel Residents Association President Clayton Anderson, however, objected to the methods used by the state.

"They overdid it," he said. "The overall objective is good, it's just the execution was a little insensitive."

Anderson suggested that the state could have removed a few trees at a time and gradually replaced the acacias with native

He also worried that loose sand will now begin to blow into the wetlands area near the bluffs.

While actual replanting is not scheduled until this fall, Ferreira said the bluffs will be stabilized with straw in the interim. She was unsure when that work would take place.

Anderson further questioned the timing of the work because of nesting patterns of local birds could be disturbed, but Ferreira disagreed.

Blackbirds use the tule area of the Carmel River, ducks enjoy open water and shorebirds utilize the mudflats, she said.

"The starlings may use the acacia but they're not native to California," Ferreira said.

Once native plants are growing in the area, animals such as the endangered legless lizard may use that flora to nest.

"Exotic species generally have less value for wildlife," Ferreira said.

Anderson was still unconvinced that the Water management district names new district manager

By NANCY HILLS

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District board has selected a new district manager, one who brings 32 years of experience in the water business to the peninusla.

Water district board chairman Dick Heuer said the board selected James Cofer, 55, by consensus because he was clearly the most outstanding candidate.

Cofer will take the position of general manager vacated by Bruce Buel in February.

'I do not believe in trying to control growth through limiting utilities. I believe in planned growth, in which you need to know what utilities you must provide.'

growth controversy has been an issue in many of the places he has worked.

"I do not believe in trying to control growth through limiting utilities. I think that Santa Barbara has shown that does not work. I believe in planned growth, in which you need to know what utilities you must provide. But I have never seen controlling growth through utilities work anywhere," he said.

His philosophy, he said, is "that first and foremost, a decision must be technically sound. It needs good technical data."

Cofer added that South Lake Tahoe has a volunteer conservation program in place, one that asks residents to retrofit their toilets upon the sale of their homes. It is working well, he said. Though he has not had to implement a rationing program, he said it sounds as if rationing is "inevitable" on the peninsula and "everybody has to participate."

"I've found that throughout the state people are cooperating. I think people understand it is serious," he said.

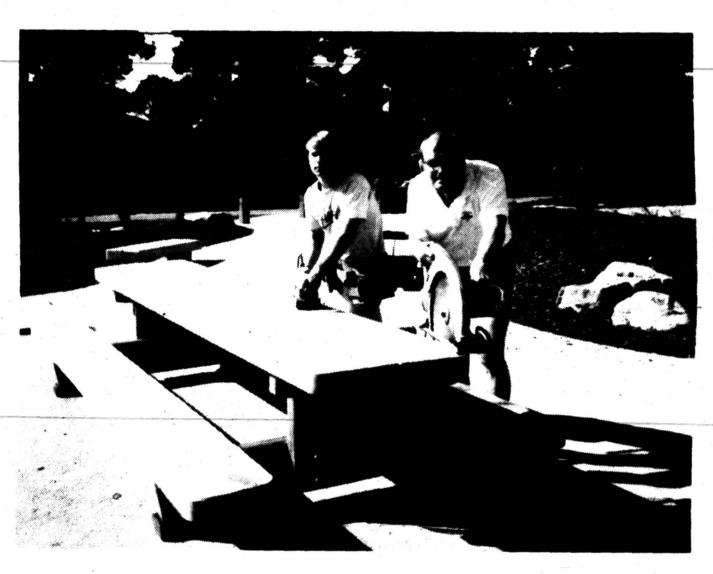

In addition to his position at South Lake Tahoe, from 1974 to 1976, he worked as a senior program manager for Don Owens & Associates in Irvine and prior to that with the Orange County Water District from 1967 to 1974. He was the assistant general manager and district engineer during his last four years with Orange County.

During that time he helped implement the Water Factory 21 project, a 30-million gallon per day combined reclaimed wastewater/desalinization plant. The project was to "provide a new source of water to stop underground seawater intrusion and for groundwater basin replenishment," his resume states.

Cofer received his bachelor's degree in engineering at the University of Missouri in 1958.

He has two grown children, a son Richard, who lives in Sacramento and daughter, Connie Froman of New York.

Cofer said he and his wife will be "looking around" for a place to live as soon as they get

Keeble resigns planning commission

CARMEL PLANNING Commissioner Fred Keeble has resigned from the commission as of Friday, May 4.

Keeble's resignation was in protest over the resignation of Commissioner Ed Hicks, who was forced to resign from the same city commission.

Carmel Mayor Jean Grace had asked Hicks to resign over a disputed word that he had used during a public design review committee meeting.

Keeble turned in his letter of resignation to Grace that day citing "The action taken by you and the City Council in regard to requiring Ed Hicks to resign from the Planning Commission makes it impossible for me to further associate with the City Administration and staff."

Keeble had not returned telephone calls as of press time Wednesday.

The Carmel City Council unanimously accepted Hicks' resignation May 1. It will discuss replacements for both Hicks and Keeble at its June 5 meeting.

City to conduct repaving work on San Carlos

THE CARMEL Public Works Department will be repaving San Carlos Street from Eighth Avenue to 12th Avenue through June 30.

During much of the work, the street will be closed to through traffic, so vehicles no higher than 12 feet 6 inches will be detoured onto Junipero Avenue between Eighth Avenue and Rio Road. Vehicles over 12 feet 6 inches in height will be detoured from Eighth Avenue to San Antonio to Santa Lucia to Rio Road.

Local architects Roger Larson and Russell Gifford reinspected the house and found evidence that the structure was an unusual concrete system, composed of concert blocks tied together with metal clips. That belied the impression that the house was seismically unstable.

Consultant and architect Sally Woodbridge from Berkeley examined the building architectuarly and historically and confirmed it as an important building structure and suitable for the national register, Sales explained.

The consortium then applied to designate the building as historically and architecturally significant. It was put on the register in

Carmel activist Harriet Rowntree celebrates her 80th birthday

TODAY IS long-time Carmel resident and community activist Harriette Rowntree's 80th birthday. Family and friends will gather Sunday afternoon, May 13 at Sunset Center's Carpenter Hall between 2-5 p.m. to celebrate her; all Harriette's friends are welcome.

Harriette first saw Carmel 72 years ago in Johnson and Josephine Culbertson, pioneer artists who lived in "Grey Gables" on the southeast corner of Seventh and Lincoln.

After graduating from high school in Atascadero, Harriette attended UC Berkeley and then moved permanently to Carmel in 1933 after marrying Cedric Rowntree, whose family has lived in the Carmel area since civic endeavors. Cedric and Harriette spent several Depression years working for the U.S. Forest Service in Del Norte County outside Crescent City, where their first son, Rowan, was born in 1935. Shortly thereafter they returned to Carmel.

Harriette first ventured into civic activities in 1936 when she and several other parents organized Carmel's first nursery school, which was located on a portion of the Forest Hill School in Carmel Woods. In 1938, her second son, Lester, was born in the Community Hospital.

As the threat of world war increased, Harriette became the organizational chairperson for the Civil Defense Women's Auxiliary in other civil defense personnel worked nonstop for three days as the community gathered black-out materials, prepared for evacuation based upon a false rumor that the Japanese fleet was off Santa Cruz (a rumor started when a fleet of Monterey sailboats, led by Paul Flanders, returning from a sailing event in San Francisco were spotted without lights off the coast), and organized Civilian Defense neighborhood networks.

The Rowntree family moved from Carmel to the San Francisco Bay Area in 1944 where Harriette continued her civic work, specializing in teen-age recreation activities in Berkeley, Walnut Creek, and Danville before returning to Carmel in 1969. At that time she drew upon this diverse community experience to organize the Monterey Volunteer Bureau

Two CBA-sponsored seminars planned

USING THE expertise of local marketing/-Buchholz and communications/training firm Rosenzweig, the CBA is set to offer two seminars for the peninsula business community.

From 7:30 to 10 a.m. Thursday, May 17, "Customer Service...Today's Competitive Edge' will be presented at the Pine Inn for $25.

Rosenzweig says that it doesn't matter how large or small your business is, the key to success is having a satisfied customer.

The seminar will offer skills, techniques and secrets in how to make changes in your business to get the most out of customer satisfaction.

From 7:30 to 10 a.m. Thursday, June 14, "Selling From The Heart" will be offered at the Pine Inn, also for $25.

Selling from the heart is not your typical sell, sell, sell kind of program, says Rosenzweig. Rather, it helps merchants find their natural strength and use it to the best of their ability. Take both of these classes and you're sure to come out on top.

Says Rosenzweig, "The combination of these trainings make people winners."

Buchholz, who has more than 15 years of experience in business, and Rosenzweig, a seasoned trainer and educator for the past decade, have developed a style and philosophy that includes commitment to excellence, healthy lifestyle and workstyle.

Together they combine expertise in executive management, marketing, training, communication and human resource development.

For more information call the CBA at 624-2522 or send checks payable to Spring Seminars to P.O. Box 4444, Carmel, CA 93921.

For a non-CBA sponsored seminar, enjoy "Entrepreneur," offered from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, May 19, at Buchholz and Rosenzweig's offices at Fifth and Dolores. The cost is $45. For further information call 625-9524.

The seminar will explore how to turn a good idea into a profitable one.

Lost in the shuffle...Longtime Pebble Beach VP of public relations Karen Hunter has been relieved of her position.

"There's been a restructuring of different departments in the company," says Mark Verbonich, VP of corporate affiars. "The way in which that department will be handled will be different in the future."

Specifically, special events will be handled by Paul Spangler. of the golf department, with advertising and marketing picked up as a sales function.

Splitting Hares...Former High on the Hog owner Anita Hare and her boyfriend have left for Maui to open a remodeling

New owner Charlene Durby, who has cut hair at the salon for the past 5½ years, says the business will remain the same. with no changes planned. In other words Stacy, who has cut for Yosh for Hair, and Larry, who hails from Beverly Hills. will remain on staff.

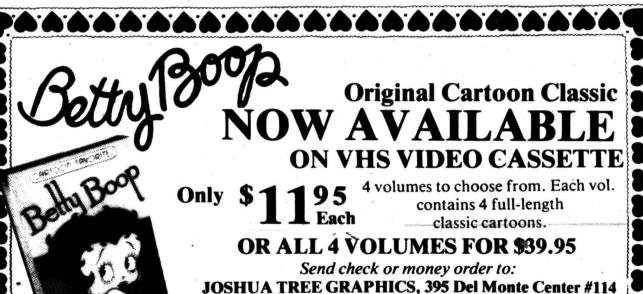

Grand opening...After several months of remodeling (with a lot of racket I might add), Coach Leather has opened up its doors at Ocean and San Carlos.

"We're thrilled to be in Carmel," says mangaer Laura Jaffe. "Our merchandise will mix with Carmel's clientele perfectly."

The 50-year-old concern uses full grain, glove-tanned cowhide — the same choice leather found in the best baseball gloves and riding saddles.

In addition to making leather bags, belts and billfolds, Coach also stockes scarves, neckties and briefcases.

Coach maintains 48 stores internationally, with five of those located in this state.

They're going "in Seine"... That would be Sensations, a trendy women's clothing store located at Sixth and San Carlos.

Through the month of May, the store is offering the ambiance of a French, open-air market, and all the vibrant spring styles to go with it.

Only the location has changed...Ray March & Associates has set up shop in the Talbot Building of Carmel Valley Center, having moved in closer from the homefront in Cachagua.

Public relations specialists Ray March and Barbara Laiolo, long active behind the scenes in peninsula special events, have decided to "surface," so to speak.

You've probably seen their work in the award-winning Pebble Beach Magazine, Big Sur Marathon publications and special event guides for the Pebble Beach Co.

For more information call 659-4536.

We're outa here...So say the owners of Visions Fine Art Gallery and Gifts on Dolores Street, who claim the Carmel Planning Department has made life unbearable in our fair town.

"Given the atmosphere of anti-business, anti-newcomer, anti-compromise when injustices are inflicted, I can't get out of Carmel fast enough," wrote Frank St. Denis, general partner, in a letter to Mayor Jean Grace. "Add arrogance and abusive treatment by civil employees who are supposed to serve the public and who receive their positions and salaries from the very businesses they are abusive with, I doubt if anyone would react differently."

St. Denis was reacting to an "oppressive and discriminatory" sign ordinance that disallowed his plans for business recognition.

The sign has since been removed and the business is now up for sale, but St. Denis still has a beef with Planning Director Diane White and former Code Enforcement Officer Mike McLeod.

He claims McLeod was overzealous in his enforcement tactics, while White was unsypmathetic and dictatorial.

"In the final analysis, no one outside of Diane White's tiny little office, in a tiny city hall, in a tiny little town, anywhere else on the Planet Earth gives a damn whether my sign is moved 40 inches around a corner or not," says St. Denis. "So enjoy your power, abusive as it may be, but rest assured that those of us who have a choice not to be abused by it, will choose the alternative every time. And that's exactly what I intend to do."

White was on vacation and unavailable for comment and McLeod has since departed for a similar job in Salinas.

Don't drive drunk, police warn last year alone, according to CHP records.

"We are not here to preach to you," said counselor Kay Anderson. "We're here because we care about you and we want you to have the best possible information."

Joining Scott in the assembly was Monterey County Municipal Court Judge Steve Sillman, CHP Officer Michael Starr and Monterey County Sheriff's Deputy Bob Mondo.

"I'm here to change some stubborn attitudes," said Scott. "You're going to get caught if you drink and drive."

Sillman told students not to expect leniency if arrested for an alcohol-related offense.

"The Legislature has passed laws that are very strict in this whole area of minors and alcohol," he said, referring to recently passed laws that mandate that minors lose their license for a year if convicted of an alcoholrelated offense.

Judges also now have the option of sentencing minors to serve their time in emergency rooms and morgues to see first-hand how substance abuse maims and kills.

CARMEL VALLEY resident Sillman added that the most heart-breaking sight in his courtroom is when a young person kills a friend while under the influence and stands trial for felony manslaughter drunken driving.

"There is nothing that you can say to anyone that will ever let you forget what you have done," Sillman said. "(Before drinking and driving) you need to ask yourself, 'Is this worth it?" "

A tense laughter arose from the student body as Starr placed handcuffs on a youngster to demonstrate what it's like to be arrested.

Sillman chided the students that the safe atmosphere of the high school library is a far cry from a cold, darkened pavement in the middle of the night where a field test actually takes place.

"If you think you're nervous now, it's not even close to what you'll feel at night," he said. "None of you will ever forget the sound of the handcuffs as they close."

Scott, whose auto insurance, when he gets his license back, will soar to more than $6,000 annually, agreed that anything is better than tryng to pass a field sobriety test when drunk.

For Scott, the scenario took place near Quail Lodge after a night of drinking with friends at Carmel Beach.

"I was scared, I was really scared - my knees were shaking," said Scott, whose blood level alcohol was .15, almost twice the legal limit. "Obviously I didn't do too good on the test."

Starr made no bones about how he feels about wanting to see kids at night under the influence.

"We don't want your business," he said, adding that 73 people died in the county last vear alone in traffic accidents.

Arrests are on the rise, despite national averages showing a person drives drunk as many as 200 times before being arrested. Sillman said.

'I'm here to change some stubborn attitudes. You're going to get caught if you drink and drive.'

— Scott

"It's not fun to go through what I had to go through," said Scott, who said he has given up drinking.

The message is clear, but so is the idea of adolescents believing they are immortal.

Said junior Jennie Lecce, "I don't know what to say. I try to tell my friends not to drink and drive, but they do it anyway. It's like Scott said, 'They might have to get caught.' "

Recreation director leaves

CARMEL'S FIRST recreation director's, Beth Kastrup, last day was April 30. Kastrup announced her resignation earlier this year, saying she intended to leave the post to pursue extended travel plans. During her tenure, which began in November 1987, Kastrup established new programs, including the music in the park series during the summer months. City personnel officer, Jerry Pullen, will fufill her duties while the city looks for a new director. Recreation programs will continue as scheduled.

Harriet Rowntree

and then, after that organization was able to hire a paid director, Harriette turned her attention and talents to youth activities in Carmel.

She was a consultant to the Carmel Mayor's Ad Hoc Committee on Recreation that led to the development of a Recreation Department for the city and, when the Recreation Commission was formed in 1986, Harriette was appointed a member, where she still serves.

Besides serving on the Recreation Commission, Harriette also chairs the Lester Rowntree Arboretum committee for the California Native Plant Society. This arboretum, located on the Flanders Estate on Hatton Road and part of the Mission Trails Park in Carmel, was created as a demonstration native plant garden in memory of Harriette's mother-in-law, Lester Rowntree, a noted California horticulturalist and environmentalist, who lived in the Carmel Highlands from 1925 until her death in 1979 at 100 years of age. With the support and assistance of the Carmel City Council and Forestry Department, Harriette led a group of volunteers who planned and planted the Arboretum to increase public awareness of common native plant species and celebrate the memory of Lester Rowntree with the preservation of urban open space with spectacular views of valley and ocean.

Today, Harriette and Cedric Rowntree,

Harriette's community spirit is paralleled by

CARMEL YOUTH BASEBALL

By Mary Parsons

Pony Starts

PONY BASEBALL kicked off their season May 5 with games in Carmel Valley and at Cutino Park in Seaside. Of the game against the Seaside A's, which the Padres lost 11-2, Chris Watkins said, "They beat us, but we were tough!"

Despite a sixth-inning rally by the Tigers, the Carmel A's won that game 6-4, aided by a great performance by hurler Justin Garza who allowed no hits. A's pitcher Joey Bernhard struck out the side in the fifth and doubled at bat. Andy Lieberman (2-for-3, double), and Michael Palshaw (double), were leading hitters for the winners. The game featured two great pick-off plays by the Tigers: Casey Christensen to Toby Lauterbach, and Josh Bonifas to Lauterbach.

The Red Sox narrowly defeated the Mets, 8-7. Evi Plata (M) blasted a 2-run homer; teammates Verin Batchev (3 runs scored), and Ben Thompson were also hitters, while Chris Brant had the only Red Sox hit. Robbie Koontz (RS) struck out 10 batters; Plata struck out seven, neither pitcher allowed any hits. Gary Grewell (RS) displayed a good glove in centerfield.

BRONCO: Despite a strong first inning, Carmel Valley Disposal was upst 18-8 by Pine Inn on May 1. PI's Laith Agha hit 4-for-4 with 4 RBI and a home run; Tommy Gerken hit 3-for-4, with an RBI triple; Ryan Travaille (RBI triple), and Tim Crowley (2-for-3, RBI), were also effective for the win. Lindley Zerbe (3-for-4, double), was CVD's top batter, with Cody Clinton (3-for-3), Parker Jones (3 RBI) and Brian Jones (double).

Derek Rayne downed La Playa 6-3 May 2. Ryan Bailey (DR)

Derek Rayne downed La Playa 6-3 May 2. Ryan Bailey (DR) and John Davi (LP) were tough on the mound, striking out seven and eight batters, respectively. DR's speed on the base paths won the game. Kevin Witherall (LP) hit 3-for-4; Barrie Wise and Chris Edwards were 2-for-4.

Carmel Valley Disposal defeated Vessey's May 3. Lindley Zerbe hit 4-for-5 with two doubles and 4 RBI; Brent Sullivan (2-for-3), and Brian Christensen (RBI double), aided the win. Brian Huntington looked good at third base. Hard hitters for Vessey's were Atsuhito Ito (2 RBI double), R.J. Minard (2 RBI), Michael Leen and Dominic Boitano.

After two hours, the Express and Derek Rayne ended with a 9-9 tie May 5; the game will be played off later. Amir Masliyah (E) hit 3-for-4 with three doubles; teammate Matt Allen also doubled. Ben Cook (DR) was 2-for-3 and doubled. Pitcher Ryan Bailey (DR) struck out seven.

A heavy-hitting La Playa squad crushed Pine Inn 13-3 on May 5. Hitting doubles were Gary Briant and John Davi (with two); Barrie Wise contributed a sharp RBI single to the win. Dave and Briant were tough on the mound, allowing only two hits apiece. The game featured three double plays: LP's Jack Camp (unassisted); a Davi/Camp combination; and PI pitcher Laith Agha, who chased down two LP runners.

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA

Announces the WINNERS OF "NAME THE PARKS" CONTEST

The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea has recently concluded a name search contest in which residents were asked to participate in naming the City's two newly acquired park properties; specifically the Torres Street and Third Avenue (formerly Handley) property and the Hodges property adjacent to the Carmel Mission.

The contest generated much interest among the public, and more than sixty suggestions were submitted as proposed names for the two parks. A "Name The Parks Committee" was formed to review the entrants and the Carmelby-the-Sea City Council made a final determination at its meeting of May 1 to name the new parks as follows: "Vista Lobos" (Torres Street property), submitted by both Jonathan Braudrick and Shirley Winter; and "Rio Park" (Hodges property), submitted by Erling Lagerholm.

An official opening ceremony for Vista Lobos is scheduled for May 14 at 5:00 p.m. The public is enthusiastically invited to attend.

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

By Henrietta Stern

The Way It Was

TODAY'S COLUMN takes us back in time to a more pastoral period in our local history. I'll focus on descriptions of the Carmel River lagoon and environs from many decades ago that really captured my imagination.

This information is taken from a report entitled "Historical Changes at the Carmel River Lagoon and Vicinity" by local hydrologist John Williams. His report traces, in pictures and text, how the lagoon has changed over 200 years and provides insights on why those changes occurred.

Williams' historical review is one part of the Carmel River Lagoon Enhancement Plan that is being prepared by Philip Williams and Associates. The plan is jointly funded by the water management district, the County of Monterey, State Parks and Recreation Department, and the California State Coastal Conservancy via a grant to the Carmel River Steelhead Association.

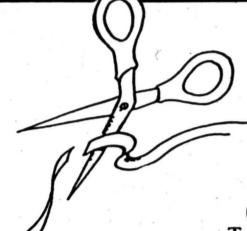

THE MISSION DAYS

Picture yourself in 1874, sitting with Father Palou at the Carmel Mission, looking out over the lagoon toward Point Lobos. Note his description of year-round flow in the Carmel River:

"The Mission of San Carlos was in a pleasant location, situated on a hill with a view over an extensive plain, which promises abundant crops. It extends along the Carmel River where water flows all the year, for although in dry seasons the water is not plentiful, in rainy seasons no crossing can be found. The plain has many trees, willows and other kinds, blackberry bushes, and quantities of Castillian roses.

"Nearby on the left, at the foot of the hill, is a good lake with so much water, especially in rainy seasons, that its banks cannot hold all that it receives from the hills, and at such times the water runs off in a large ditch to the sea, which is at a distance of little more than two gunshots, in a little bay south of Punta de Pinos; but in the dry seasons the lake holds a quantity of good water, and has some springs. In rainy seasons, a dam formed in part by the hill extending across the lake makes it easy to retain enough water for irrigation purposes on the plain."

Water News

Those were the days, when distance was measured in gunshots! Punta de Pinos evidently refers to Carmel Point.

BURIED OVER TIME

Geologist Andrew Lawson studied the area in 1891 and 1892. His 1893 report notes that Carmel River "emerges upon the bay through a rocky gate about one-eighth of a mile wide." The "rocky gate" Lawson referred to was a pair of volcanic rocky points which have been buried by sand over time. Among geologists interested in local faulting, this is known as "Lawson's Lost Outcrop," and helps define the course of the Cypress Point Fault.

CARMEL MARTIN REMEMBERS

An interesting peek into "the good 'ol days" is provided in the transcripts of the 1931 trial of Otey v. CSD, which concerned disputed title to beach property. The court heard extensive testimony about the mouth of the Carmel River and the condition of the lagoon itself. One witness was the wellknown attorney, Carmel Martin, who reminisced about his boyhood in the late 1800s:

"I was born near the Carmel Mission, right near the mouth of the river. After I arrived at school age, we used to wade the river, beginning in the early part of March of each winter, and go to the Bay School, which is near the mouth of San Jose Creek.

"Also, all of our family, when we were young folks, we used to spear Steelhead Trout or salmon, as we called them, in the mouth of the river all winter long, from the opening of the river in late fall, generally around the early part of December each year. We would fish for Steelhead and spear them in this river and, in order to spear them, you had to get right into the stream; you could not spear them from the bank, you had to get right down into the water, all the way from our ankles up.

"Besides that, we used to hunt ducks there all the time and in the spring after the Steelhead Trout stopped running then we would fish for the small Steelhead Trout with a fishing rod. We did not use rods, however, we simply used a piece of cane pole. We continued fishing for trout all through the summer season, until the water got somewhat stagnant, by being impounded for a long period of time, when the trout tasted of brackish water."

FISH TOO THICK TO COUNT

Martin's half-brother, J.H. Stewart (as in Stewart's Cove. no doubt), moved to the Martin (Mission) Ranch when he was seven, and operated a dairy there for many years:

"I lived near the mouth of the river for 38 years continuously (1874-1912). I had my cows pastured down there all summer at the mouth of the river and in winter time us boys were spearing those steelheads night and day. We would go down at low tide and we would wait for them at night so we were pretty well familiar with that part of the country."

The above testimony and that of others indicates that the steelhead run was once much larger than it is now. According to one source, "the boys" from the Martin ranch speared 1,300 steelhead one winter, and many other people fished the river as well. Bob Norton, another old-timer cited by Williams, noted that steelhead in the lagoon were sometimes "too thick to count." Those certainly were the days!

TO BE CONTINUED

So much for memories. Next month's column will focus more on the changes that have occurred at the Carmel River lagoon and the causes for them. This information is important to develop an enhancement plan that best restores the lagoon to more natural conditions.

SAD EVENT HERALDS CHANGE

As many of you know, water district boardmember Bob Russell passed away on April 27. Mr. Russell was elected to the board in November 1989 by a great margin. Though he was on the board only a few months, he made a significant impact on board policy and direction, especially regarding new water meter connections.

A Night to Remember

PREPARATIONS FOR one's Junior-Senior Prom usually begins around three weeks prior to the actual occasion. The everyday school outfit, once a pair of jeans and a T-shirt, is replaced by something a little more impressive. This slight change in appearance comes in the hopes of attaining an invitation to the dance by that special person.

Clammy hands, a rise in blood pressure, and severe dizziness are symptoms which often accompany the stage fright one feels when addressing hundreds of people. They are also found quite regularly in those involved in the process of inviting someone to share an evening of elegance. This important question, often rehearsed in front of a mirror, ends up sounding more like a computerized message than a personal invitation.

The stress involved with the actual invitation is usually relieved with a prompt response. Hopefully, this answer is one of a positive nature and both the girl and boy are equally excited. Too often, either the boy or girl wishes he or she were with someone else, making Prom night pretty uncomfortable. The best bet is to go with a good friend rather than someone who will make the night tense and filled with insecurity.

After one finds a date, if one is lucky enough to achieve this great feat, the long waiting period begins. The evening, which seems like a year in the future, requires hours and hours of tedious preparation. Reservations must be made far in advance for limousine services and dinner ideas. Plans for before and after the dance must also be arranged as early as possible in order to avoid a chaotic Prom night.

For girls, finding a Prom dress is about as painless as getting one's wisdom teeth pulled. It often requires two to three trips to the mall in order to find the perfect dress. In addition to the dress, shoes, stockings, jewelry, and the flowers have to be taken care of, and, of course, they all have to be perfect.

Renting a tuxedo is not as hard as finding a dress, but it adds to the great expense of the night. The entire package, including the bid, dinner, transportation, clothing, etc., could cause much tension in the family when the credit card bill comes in the mail a few weeks later.

After the manicure, hair appointment, and tanning salon, the night becomes a reality. Whether or not it will be all that was anticipated depends upon the individuals, however, no matter what happens, it will be a night to remember for years to come.

This year, Carmel High's Prom will be held Saturday night. May 12, at the Hyatt Regency in Monterey.

I would like to give my fellow classmates a small reminder to be careful on Prom night and to not drink and drive. Although Prom is one of the most important nights of our lives, it should not be our last.

Stevenson pirates storm the stage in 'Treasure Island' ballet

MORE THAN 65 Stevenson Lower and Middle Schools students ages 4 through 14 will perform the swashbuckling ballet adventure of Treasure Island. adapted from the classic children's novel by author Robert Louis Stevenson, and choreographed and directed by Patricia Wester.

The students of Stevenson Lower and Middle Schools, bedecked in pirate costumes complete with swords and colorful jewel costumes, will bring this tale of piracy on the tropic seas to the public on Friday, May 11 at 7 p.m., and Saturday, May 12 at 2 and 7 p.m. at the Stevenson Upper School's Keck Auditorium in Pebble Beach. Tickets will be sold in advance at Stevenson Lower and Middle Schools on Dolores and First streets in Carmel and at the door for $6 general admission; $4 for senior citizens and children under 12 years.

"This is the classic adventure story for all ages of children - complete with secret maps, a romantic quest for treasure, swashbuckling pirates sailing the open seas, and a host of legendary characters from the most kind to the most sinister," says dance instructor Patricia Wester. "The students are having a fabulously fun time putting it all together."

Patricia Wester has taught dance on the Monterey Peninsula for more than 34 years producing several internationally acclaimed ballet dancers now performing with major companies that include the Royal Ballet of England, the Dutch National Ballet, the Bejart's Company of Brussels, American Ballet Theatre, and the Canadian National Ballet. Ms. Wester studied at the Conservatory of Ballet in San Francisco during high school on a full scholarship and later performed with the Metropolitan Opera Ballet in New York. During 1978-81 Wester served as dance coach for the United States Olympic women's gymnastic team. This is Wester's eighth year teaching at the school.

Stevenson School is a prekindergarten through 12th grade coeducational school. The Stevenson Lower and Middle Schools in Carmel for grades prekindergarten through eighth offers dance as part of its required curriculum and in the afternoons as an optional activity for all students.

For more information call 624-4815 at the Stevenson Lower and Middle Schools.

RECLEAGUE SOCKO

By Pat Lenz

Halfway there

WE ARE at the midway point in the Socko softball season and the trading deadline passed without any major deals being made.

Obviously the exorbitant salaries being paid to the players scares off any trades. Some of the struggling teams will be bringing up some players from the minors to fill some holes due to injuries and disappearances of their players. It is also amazing that the season is half over and not one manager has been fired yet, but quite a few of the managers have talked of retiring very soon, or having themselves committed.

ENERGIZERS CRACK G.R.A.C. POTS

Energizers 19 — G.R.A.C. POTS 2:

The Energizers remained the only undefeated team with a thorough pounding of the G.R.A.C. Pots. Their five-run first inning was enough to win the game, as they played excellent defense throughout the game. The Energizers showed off their power with four home runs in the game.

BELLS ROLLS C.R.A.P.S.

Bells Bombers 27 — C.R.A.P.S. 4:

Bells Bombers showed off their power early by scoring 12 runs in the first inning in an easy win. Bells continues to show off their scoring ability.

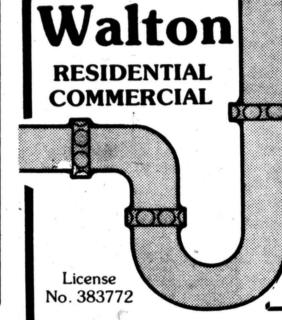

BULL GORES DEFENDERS

Bully III 12 — D.C. Defenders 6:

In a game that was close for the first six innings, Bully III scored three runs in the seventh inning and four more in the eighth to give them a large enough lead to hold off the Defenders. After a slow start Bully is playing excellent ball.

Roll out the barrel

WHAT, NO French beer? I looked and looked but couldn't find one single bottle of beer from France. I know, I know, you think of wine when you think of France. But, incidentally, they bottle some fine beers as well.

I was looking for "Brassin de Garde de Saint Leonard." A delicious beer bottled in France in a taller bottle than the American beers and corked like champagne. But my search was doomed to failure.

Unless I missed it, there was no Berliner Weisse, the beer that is so refreshing on a hot day when poured over a dollop of pure raspberry syrup.

That isn't to say there weren't enough beers to sample at the first "California Brewmaster's Classic." There were more than ample numbers of beer with 20 beverage companies represented along with the same number of restaurants and caterers serving gourmet delights that go well with beer.

Walking up the stairs to the mezzanine of the Monterey Sheraton Hotel the aroma of hot sausages aroused the taste buds. Sausages of all kinds go well with beer, even with the exotic flavor of Lindeman's Peche Lambi Golden beer with its sparkling peachy taste.

Beat Giger and his crew from the Pebble Beach Resorts served Semmel Knodel and veal sausage. La Playa's Bryan Carr served both duck and spicy Italian sausages. Everyone told me that the Mark Thomas Outrigger booth had great food, but the word went around so fast the supply was wiped out early in the evening.

Baum & Blume/The Carriage House food was popular and they had difficulty serving all the hungry people in line. Toots Lagoon was popular, as was Central 159, Flaherty's Oyster Bar and Silver Jones (what delicious smoked salmon Michael Jones had done for this event). Allegro Gourmet Pizzeria came up with hot hors d'oeuvres that were just right with the wonderful beers.

Robert De Vinck (formerly from Carmel, now a rep for Merchant Du Vin), was the beer representative coming the greatest distance for The Classic, all the way from Seattle. Alpine Village Hofbrau in Torrance was the southernmost brewery attending. Just south of Seattle, Yakima Brewing — Grant's Ales served up their best and again from Southern California, Central Coast Brewing Co. from San Luis Obispo, and right here at home The Monterey Brewing Co. on Wave Street.

Serving non-alcoholic brews and beverages were Odwalla Juices from Davenport, Firestone-Fletcher Brewing from Los Olivos and Gzdich Farms from Watsonville.

Although France was not represented, England was. Firman Brown's Watsonville firm Favorite Brands imports a variety of beers and ales from London: Young's London Porter, Ram Rod Pale Ale, Young's Winter Ale, Old Nick Barley Wine Style Ale, and even Oatmeal Stout. Now, that's just got to be healthy, with oats being the current food fad right now. Perhaps it will lower cholesterol. (Maybe?) Oh well, if you like beer, it's worth a try.

The Brewmasters' Classic beneficiaries were Monterey Bay public radio station KAZU and the Big Sur Land Trust. This first event was more popular than anticipated. Around 500 guests picked up commemorative Pilsner glasses as they entered and after three hours of serious beer and food tasting they danced to the music of the Boppa Nova Band.

Susan Racanelli, KAZU board member and coordinator for The Classic, found that this will be a compatible spring event to add to "A Tasty Affair," the winter wine tasting sponsored by KAZU alone. Helping Susan were David Fink, Carol Hartkopf, Roxanna Hartman, Kristi Kauffman, Paulette Lynch, Marty Manson, Mac McDonald (KAZU board secretary), Andrea Mennenga, Rod Mills, Marsha Lubow, Ken Peterson, with the popular actor and KAZU personality, Keith Decker, serving as emcee.

Tap beer, winter beer, bottled brew, ales, exotic blends and standard beers, along with non-alcoholic brews made the format a novel one. A format of food tasting (which means you eat while standing up), with sips of a variety of beverages, which, this time was beer instead of the usual wine. A format that was a hit with all the guests.

What was missing? That rousing song Beer Barrel Polka. It's always fun to follow up on special auction purchases. Jack and Joan Oechsel of Pebble purchased a dinner at the March of Dimes Gourmet Gala for $750. I am pleased to report that they were absolutely delighted with the private dinner given for their friends in the home of the Lee Earlys.

Raymond Krenzke and Jim Jackson kindly volunteered to serve Schramsberg Champagne to the beautifully dressed gusts as they arrived: Bob and Norma D'Isidoro, Ken and Shirley Johnson, Charlie and Diane Kinney, Tom and Beverly Klinger, and the Oechsels.

Menus in pastel shades matched the spring floral arrangements of sweet peas, camellias, azaleas and lilacs fresh from the Earlys' flower garden.

A few highlights of the menu. Smoked Salmon & Caviar, Soup d'Or (the soup served topped with gold elaves that won a prize for Tab Hunter, Bill Beckley and Artie Early at the 1990 Gourmet Gala); Filet of Beer Maison with Broccoli George (in honor of the president). Someone said, "Luckily the president MICHAEL JONES (of Silver Jones restaurant), joined Debbie Thomas and Leslie Shill, who just returned from South Africa where they were visiting Leslie's family. The two plan a June wedding.

isn't here, so he doesn't have to eat it." We all know that he refuses to eat broccoli anywhere.

Choice asparagus was served as a separate course on gorgeous old French plates. Dory Urcis provided the Lemon Sorbet and the special dessert — which was chocolate with chocolate, natch. The piece de resistance was Stilton cheese and walnut cookies (shaped like walnuts and handmade in England), that Artie hand-carried back from their recent trip abroad. It was topped off with 1963 Croft Port.

All this should entice heated bidding at the March of Dimes Gala of 1991.

Members and guests of the Monterey County Symphony Guild can expect something extra-special when they gather at the Hyatt Regency for the annual luncheon May 24. The exciting news is the speaker — Kyra Petroyskaya Wayne. She and her husband, Dr. George Wayne, renowned psychiatrist, are new residents of Monterey.

Mrs. Wayne was born Princess Obelelskaya, member of one of Czarist Russia's oldest and most illustrious families. She has had a variety of careers. Concert singer, stage and screen actress, war nurse, sharpshooter, civic leader, author and lecturer.

Commissioned a lieutenant in the Red Army, she went to the front with an entertainment unit headed by Russia's great composer Dimitri Shostakovich. She was wounded twice during combat as a sharpshooter and served in Leningrad as a field nurse during the terrible three-year siege of the city.

Her book, Kyra, about her years in Russia, was on the bestseller list. Another book, The Awakening, is a story set during the political purges in the 1930s. She has written a cookbook and several books for children.

As a lecturer she is known coast-to-coast and was recently appointed enrichment lecturer for the Royal Viking Lines. Her views are especially pertinant with the dramatic changes in the Soviet Union and other countries in Eastern Europe.

Dr. and Mrs. Wayne collect Dutch and Italian Renaissance paintings and are world travelers. Mrs. Wayne speaks six languages and her hobbies are embroidery and gardening. Despite her years of hardship, she is a woman of great wit, vivacity and charm. (I will interview her today on the 11 a.m. news on KSBW-TV 8.)

This guild event fits well with the plans for the 45th season of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra. Opening the 1990-91 season will be the world premiere of "A Musical Tribute to Denmark," featuring two guests artists from Denmark. How's that for an opener? Music director and conductor, Clark E. Suttle, will also conduct the Danish premiere in Copenhagen.

In November two violinists from the New York Philharmonic are on the program and in January '91 Russian virtuoso Alexander Slobodyanik will perform Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 3 Op. 30 in D Minor on a program with great Russian Romantics, Tchaikovsky's Romero and Juliette and Rimsky-Korsakov's Scheherazade.

Next Volkmar Fritsche from Germany will be guest conductor and the season finale features "Music of Mozart" and Irish pianist John O'Conor and Italian and American folk music including Copland's Appalachian Spring. Subscriber tickets are now on sale for the 1990-91 season.

Stevenson returns to Stevenson. Robert Louis Stevenson School that is. This time in the form of a swashbuckling ballet adventure of Treasure Island choreographed by Patricia Wester. Students ages 4-14 will give performances of this classic Friday, May 11 at 7 p.m. and Saturday, May 12 at 2 and 7 p.m. in Keck Auditorium. Tickets are available in advance at Stevenson School, Dolores and First, Carmel or at the door.

The Monterey Bay Symphony has announced its second preseason "Old World Dinner" for May 19 at Express d'Orient Restaurant (the scene of fun and frivolity a year ago). The saga of "The Flasher On the Orient Express" continues. The $75 dinner tickets include a season symphony pass. Reserve by May 14 to find out if True Boardman will be able to solve the open-and-shut case. Call 372-6276 soon or you'll miss the "All Aboard" call.

DAVID FINK (left), of Highlands Inn (and committee member of The Classic), helped Robert De Vinck pour beer for Jon Strolle, KAZU board president, and Marty Manson, KAZU committee and board member.

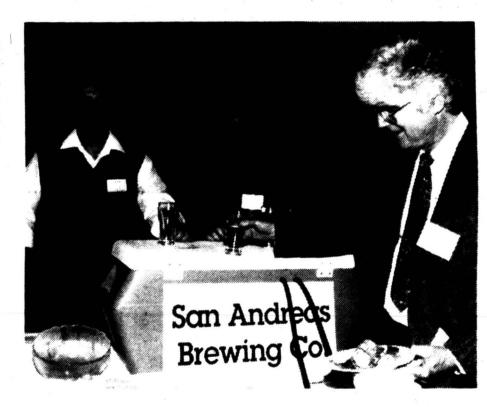

DAVID LANG, manager of Toots Lagoon, served ribs to Britt Haselton, who came from Aptos to attend the Brewmasters' Classic.

BRYAN CARR, executive chef at La Playa, was pleased that Matthew Sundt, Cindy Daniel and Chris Sundt were enjoying the food at La Playa table.

MATT MARASCO (left), and his wife Jan enjoyed the beer and food along with Mark Lewis, all from Central 159 restaurant in New Monterey.

ROGER NEWELL (right), a Big Sur Land Trust board member, tried beer from San Andreas Brewing Co. offered by Garro Bryant and Mitch Steels.

"Country Airs," a one-day flower fair will move into Clint Eastwood's historic Mission Ranch on May 19th. You will see the sheep peacefully grazing on the wetlands as you walk from one barn to the other. Special exhibits include "Turkey in the Straw," "Second Hand Rose," "How Dry I Am," "Don't Fence Me In," and "Flight of the Bumblebee."

Carmel-by-the-Sea Garden Club has been planning this major event for two years. Handcrafts by club members will be

BREWMASTERS' CLASSIC EVENT A BIG SUCCESS

More than 600 people gathered Friday evening for the California Brewmasters' Classic (a fund-raiser for the nonprofit Big Sur Land Trust and public radio station KAZU-FM), held at the Monterey Sheraton to take part in Central California's first premium beer-tasting event. The benefit featured 20 microbreweries from California and Washington state and gourmet hors d'oeuvres served by 20 of Monterey Peninsula's finest restaurants.

"This was just great," said Sanford Monblat, proprietor for Aass microbrewery. "This event has the style and is the size that is perfect for small breweries. People were genuinely interested in learning about our beers. We don't see that at larger events."

David Fink, food and beverage director of Highlands Inn. added, "I was thoroughly impressed with the tasteful and sophisticated blend of restaurants together with microbreweries. In their collaboration, KAZU and the land trust have the perfect makings for an annual premier beertasting event."

Funds from ticket sales benefitted both the land trust and radio station.

NOSTALGIA THEME FOR CARMEL HIGH CONCERT

The Carmel High Music Department, under the direction of Richard Robins, will present "Nostalgia" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 10 at Sunset Center in Carmel.

The concert marks the culmination of four years of music study for graduating seniors at Carmel High. Students voted to perform their favorite selections from past concerts, including: Bugler's Holiday, Novena, Fantasy on an American Sailing Song, and Amparita Roca by the Concert Band; Pachelbel Canon and Eine Kleine Nachtmusik by the Chamber Orchestra; and Carmel Jam Blues, Oop Bop Sh-Bam, and In a Mellow Tone, by the Jazz Ensemble.

The concert hold special meaning and memories for students, teachers, administrators and parents because four years ago the CHS Music Department was revived, Robins hired as music director and 23 students were enrolled. The first concert "New Beginnings" premiered in December 1986 with Rep. Leon Panetta as the first guest performer.

What can retired people do if their grandchildren live far away and visits are infrequent? Some serve as unofficial grandparents in schools, working with young children individually or in groups. In Hastings. New York, a group of women visit a school once a week to teach each class a sewing project, like a heart-shaped surprise to take home for Valentine's Day. At a residence-school for boys with problem backgrounds, 10 men and women visit once a month. All but one are in their 80s. They bring homemade birthday cakes, play Scrabble with the boys, and take them bowling or picnicking. Some boys are distrustful at first, says one volunteer, but the become very loving when they learn "you are giving of yourself," that you are not being paid but "are there because you want to be."

For people 65 to 69 who work, 1990 is a good year. The longtime Social Security rule of deducting one dollar from benefits for every two dollars earned above annual limits has been changed to one for every three. The one-for-three change also applies to the months before one turns 70, when benefits no longer are affected by the earnings limit.

These Area Games are only part of the ongoing Monterey County Special Olympics programs. These athletes are dedicated and committed to become the best athletes and citizens they can be. But they need our help. A program has been developed that allows individuals and businesses to "sign" an athlete to a "Free Agency" contract. The total cost for a yearly sponsorship is only $500, and covers the cost of an athlete's equipment, competition, travel and lodging for the entire 1990 calendar year. Athletes compete in local, regional, and statewide events such as aquatics, basketball, bowling, softball, skiing, skating, and track and field events.

The public is invited and encouraged to experience the thrills and excitement of the Special Olympics and cheer these dedicated athletes on to victory.

Blue-blooded dogs assemble for 'Classic of the Pacific'

THE LAWNS in front of the Lodge at Pebble Beach provide the setting for the "Classic of the Pacific," the Del Monte Kennel Club's 70th All Breed

Dog Show and Obedience Trial. Six hundred blue ribbon winners and champions representing more than 100 breeds will compete in this event, arriving Saturday, May 12.

A panel of American Kennel Club Judges will be headed by Carmel's Derek Rayne, who is celebrating his 50th year as an AKC Judge and will be selecting the Best in Show. Judging in the conformation and obedience rings will begin at 9 a.m. Variety group judging will begin at approximately 3 p.m., followed by the announcement of "Best in Show" at approximately 5 p.m.

Demonstrations of two ways that dogs serve man will be held during the noon break. Top sheepdog handler Danny Hoag and his border collies will demonstrate techniques of sheep herding. From Corral de Tierra, they have been showing in international competitions for the past three years. Also planned is a demonstration by a hearing ear dog and handler.

Kal Kan Pedigree, a supporter of the show, is making its "Selectadog" computer available free of charge throughout the day. "Selectadog" offers those considering the addition of a dog to their household the opportunity of having the computer recommend the breeds of dog best suited to their home, family, age, activity level and lifestyle. Very popular wherever it has been offered, "Selectadog" helps eliminate much of the confusion connected with choosing a dog.

Admission to the show is $10 for adults; $5 for children (ticket price includes Del Monte forest gate entrance fee). Tickets may be purchased at the Pebble Beach gates on the day of the show or in advance at Total Dog in the Barnyard, Suds & Scissors, Carmel Rancho, Derek Rayne, Ltd., in downtown Carmel, the Animal Hospital at the Crossroads, and Center Stage Ticketing.

Proceeds from the show will benefit the Hearing Ear Dog and Shatter Silence projects of the Quota Club of Carmel.

'Haiku — The Art and Craft'

THE ANNUAL Robinson Jeffers Tor House Garden Party is set noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 12. The Tor House Foundation and Monterey Peninsula College will co-sponsor an evening of Haiku poetry, also on Saturday. The program, "The New Pond—Haiku: The Art and Craft," will feature readings by (standing) Lequita Vance-Watkins of Carmel, a 1984 winner of the Chapbook Competition for Haiku Poetry. Also reading will be (seated, from left) author Michael Welch; Paul O. Williams, science fiction author; and Gary Gay, current president of Haiku Poets of North America. The program begins at 8 p.m. in Carpenter Hall at Carmel's Sunset Center. Admission is $5. For details, call 624-1813.

Friday opportunity to view 'Jung on Film'

A VIDEOTAPE presentation of "Jung on Film" will be shown at 7 p.m., Friday, May 11 at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel.

Sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung, the showing is an hour-plus long version of the series of intervies of Dr. Jung by Professor Richard I. Evans of the University of Houston in 1957, about four years before Jung's death in 1961.

The longer versions of the film were used in college and university classrooms, showing Jung discussing key parts of his psychological theory and practice. Surveys of student responses indicated a heightened learning experience from seeing and hearing Jung himself speak with such humor and spontaneity about his ideas.

The public is invited to this and all other events sponsored by the Friends of C.G. Jung. This is an informal collection of people who share an enthusiasm for the writings of the Swiss physician. Their weekly discussions help make his ideas applicable to their everyday lives.

Prior registration is suggested but not required — as is a modest donation to help defray expenses of videotapes, books, facility use, etc. For further information, call or write: 649-8809; 899 Drake Ave., Monterey.

JAZZ TIDES By John Detro

Commitments

MONTEREY BAY Blues Festival announces the lineup for its fifth annual bash at the fairgrounds next month (6/23-24).

The organization doesn't list specific times at which given performers will appear. Obviously that's a move against targeted attendance. In other words, ticket-buyers make a commitment to the overall design rather than to individual stars.

I'm already wired about the signing of singer and pianist Charles Brown — living history as well as a knockout act. Others on the roster: Albert King, Charlie Musselwhite, Little Milton, Ernie Johnson, Junior Wells, Betty Wright, Clarence Carter, Little Joe Blue, Bobby Blue Bland, Denise LaSalle, Tarry Hanck and his Soulrockers, Esther Jones, Bobby Reed Band, Johnny Heartsman, Takezo, Bess Williams, Paul Soderman Band, Tom Ball, Kenny Sultan, Ken Arconti's Blowtop Blues Band, Gospel Hummingbirds, Sugar Pie DeSanto.

The newly-released festival brochure says additional artists will be added between now and June 23. Ray Taliaferro from the San Francisco radio scene again will serve as master of ceremonies.

There's a wide price range. Ticket order forms may be obtained by calling 394-2652. Folks wishing the same seats they had last year face a deadline — May 18.

The 1989 edition had some real problems with mood (surly security troops, that no-dancing rule dropped on the Sunday afternoon arena crowd). Any music festival that doesn't love the electricity between customers and performers needs serious help. Some board members have been working hard to correct the manifest attitude that Blues Festival overseers somehow were doing us listeners a huge favor.

This lineup respects established performers along with fiery young talent. Handsome brochure too. Why not request one today?

WORD WORK: Jazz writer, poet, pianist, award-winning teacher at Monterey Peninsula College. Bill Minor's on sabbatical. Come Monday (5/14), he and wife Betty leave for Russia where Minor will interview musicians and critics and educators throughout a nine-city tour. Magazine pieces plus an already-begun book on Soviet jazz may be anticipated by we who enjoy Bill's refulgent prose.

"Betty at first asked 'Why Russia?' and that was a fair question," Bill said as we chatted during the Monterey Jazz Festival's 20th annual student competition. "People interested in the arts still seem stumped by Soviet jazz. Musicians there finally have been accepted. They're no longer outlaws, so there's less sense of direction. It's a good time to find out things. Betty and I both feel excited now."

The journey's preparation phase occupied him for more than a year — contacts, language study, grants, gathering views of American jazzmen who've toured within that vast land. "The adventure's two-thirds paid for," Bill continued.

"In Moscow, we'll attend the First International Jazz Festival (5/30-6/5) as guests of the USSR Composers Union. I have tram Russian that'll get us around. I'm not shy about using

This jazz tour includes Leningrad, Petrozavodsk (Rautio Musical College), Tallinn, Vilnius, Kiev, Odessa, Yalta, Tbilisi. "We'll be back in mid-July. The book's planned as a first-hand account that will take readers into the world of the contemporary Soviet musician."

Thomas Merton called her Sophia. Wisdom. The Muse lets poets assist every now and then. It's without puffy pride or property sense that I note the public reading from my latest poetry book.

Aforementioned Chicago performer Junior Wells plays a part in St. Joseph's Blues issued by St. Andrews Press — a college-based house in North Carolina. The reading will happen on Wednesday evening (5/16) at Barbara Murphy's Portofino Coffee House. That's downstairs in Pacific Grove Plaza. An excellent poet who expressed interest in participating will do so as surprise guest. Eight o'clock kick.

The book's dedicated to the late jazz vocalist Carol Mildon. What's to say? She remains a deep influence and shan't ever be forgotten. All proceeds from local sales go toward paying off the memorial scholarship awarded in Carol's name to a young jazz singer picked by pro judges during MJF's statewide high school event (4/28). The winner was India Velasquez of Soquel High, which took home the Best Vocal Group award ($500).

One can never make such things happen. My unpublished novella about Carol now has been taken up by a New York writer and therapist who thought the story would be of healing value to certain clients. So Carol's still out there, doing what she does in other people's lives.

I hope to meet you at that reading. Portofino info: 373-7379.

SIGHT BITES: Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra offers a series of guest shots. Robert Louis Stevenson High School Big Band will play at Mission Ranch Barn on Monday night (5/14). Then: MPJO's regular sets. Only $4 per at the door.

Don't forget the MPJO occasions featuring famed drummer Ed Shaughnessy. First comes the public clinic at 1:30 Saturday afternoon (5/19) in Doubletree Hotel's Brasstree Lounge. Schools get priority seating. Doubletree co-sponsoring.

Concert (wine tasting, MPJO, Monterey Vocal Jazz Ensemble, Ed joining the orchestra for a full set out of his big band portfolio) on the following Sunday night (5/20). Tickets cost $15 apiece...25% discount to MPJO members. Business people and other potential patrons were asked to take batches of tickets for distribution amongst students. Info: 899-5919.

'Harvey,' a gentle and delightful comedy

FEW PLAYS can match the warmth and charm of Mary Chase's Harvey. Revivals of this gentle and delightful comedy are always welcome, and the current production at Monterey's Wharf Theatre is no exception.

Most of us know its allegorical plot involving the pixillated Elwood P. Dowd, his alter ego and drinking companion (the non-existent six-foot rabbit of the title), and his live-in sister, Veta Louise Simmons, who, in a desparate move to secure a social future for her daughter, attempts to have her brother committed to a sanitarium. A hilarious mixup catapults Veta Louise into the hydro-tub and the manhandling mitts of Wilson, an orderly at Dr. Chumley's Rest(?). The ensuing man (and rabbit) hunt provides plenty of farcical run, with a subplot of love/hate between two of Doctor Chumley's employees adding a bit of romance.

Jim Jensen's characterization of Elwood P. Dowd is Jim Jensen's characterization of Elwood P. Dowd is agreeably smooth and mellow. It's a beaut of a part, whimsical and genuine and civil, peppered with aphorisms which Jensen tosses off with proper insouciance. Gina Welch-Hagen is satisfyingly fluttery and distraught as Veta Louise, mother to the would-be Rocky Mountain debutante Myrtle Mae, portrayed by Tina L. Tricharichi. Ms. Tricharichi plays with lots of spirit, but should work on her reactions to others on stage.

The proprietor of the sanitarium, Dr. William R. Chumley, is played by Kevin Delaney, whose intention is always clear, but who enjoys mixed success in an attempt to play older than he is. The same age-disadvantageous casting has occurred in the case of Don Bieber, in the role of Lyman Sanderson, M.D. Bieber is an animated young actor who has come a long way in recent years. His romantic/sparring partner, Ruth Kelly, R.N., is played with attractive sincerity by Abigail Schreiber. Patrick Stadille rounds out the crew at the rest home in an amusing interpretation of the role of Duane Wilson.

The play is rich in terrific cameo and featured parts, and these performances are among the evening's highlights, with Robert J. Berman's Lloyd Nolanesque delivery and strong performance especially memorable. Pat Berman is exactly right as Aunt Ethel Chauvenet, while Nancy Lee Methinitis' portrayal of Betty Chumley is a small gem. Bill Meehan is completely convincing as the cab driver, E.J. Lofgren. And Harvey ... is Harvey!

Harrison Shields' direction is fittingly fast-paced, and all the technical support works well. The set changes and the lavishness of the sets themselves go an ambitious step beyond what is usually essayed at the Wharf — congratulations to designer Carey Crockett and his crew. Bonnie McInich's costumes are lovely, particularly those designed for Ms. Welch-Hagen.

The perennial success of this simple play lies in the irresistable charm of its leading character, Elwood P. Dowd, who, though reassuringly flawed and human, embodies the old-fashioned virtues of kindness, sincerity, and decency.

Harvey continues to play Friday, Saturday, Sunday evenings through June 10. I recommend it!

Islands in the sun

PICTURE YOURSELF on the veranda of a sundrenched South Seas island beach house; wild colors abound, the sweet smell of hibiscus is in the air and the only sound is the warm breeze and Bob Marley leisurely wafting from a nearby radio.

Now take that scenario if you will and plop it down at the lip of Monterey Bay a stone's throw from Fisherman's Wharf and you may just have the closest thing to the ambiance of one of Monterey's unique new restaurants, Islands.

Islands (and its companion, the Black Pearl Nightclub), is located in Heritage Harbor in a location that is as famous for its panoramic picture-perfect view as it for its revolving-door restaurants: Windows and The Point to name just two that have passed into restaurant heaven. Islands is hoping to shatter that jinx with a combination of breezy charm and exciting food.

Partner/general manager Noel Young and chef Chris Jensen have fashioned a sunny and exotic menu that features an often-inspired blending of several ethnic styles, from Thai, Chinese and Japanese to Hawaiian and Polynesian with a little bit of Caribbean zest thrown in for good measure — call it Pacific Rim California Tropical if you must.

A recent trend in restaurant cuisine has seen cross-cultural marriages of flavors and ingredients, ranging from the inventive to the ridiculous: Chinese-Mexican, Japanese-French, Thai-Italian, etc., you get the picture. Some have resulted in a delectable inventiveness while others have bordered on overkill.

At Islands, Young and Jensen have taken the best of all worlds and come up with a menu that should satisfy just about every palate, whether its your steak-and-potatoes man (try the baby back ribs with Outer Rim glaze or the oak-grilled New York steak), the adventurous soul (Seafood Fettuccine with shrimp, scallops and fish in coconut mint cream sauce over mango and red chili pasta), the vegetarian (Vegetable Steamer, a melange of fresh steamed vegetables and fruits with Asian herbs), the picky eater (Island Salad or the Island Glider burger perhaps?), and the just plain hungry (Tropical Seafood Pizza with bay shrimp, clams, mussels, and bay scallops), or Char Siu Glazed Chicken, a house-smoked one-half free-range

Entering the second-floor restaurant I was taken by its warm pastel-infused atmosphere — colorful but comforting. Wild splashes of color, including Hawaiian fabrics, original artwork and sculptured neon sea life, were balanced by the tropical pastels, turquoise and fuchsia bordered by high-tech black lacquer trim. Potted palms and overhead fans added to the South Seas island motif. Add the expansive 180 degree vie Monterey Bay and harbor and the bright and airy atmc brought on by the floor-to-ceiling windows and you've got the perfect setting for your tropical dreams.

General manager Young, who worked his way up the ladder of the restaurant business from dishwasher and busboy to manager, cut his restaurant teeth in the Chart House chain. famous for its seafood and waterfront locales. After brief stints at Jimmy's American Place at the mouth of the valley and Bagwell's at the Hyatt Regency in Honolulu, he decided to strike out on his own, combining his travel and restaurant experiences into a fun, contemporary eatery on the waterfront.

Jensen, meanwhile, was virtually raised in a family of chefs and served stints at North Denver Country Club, the busy Harbor House Restaurant in San Diego, Pappagallo, Fredricks, and Steamers (all in Southern California), where he perfected his specialty pizzas and dough, the foundation for the excellent pizzas on the Islands menu.

Not only is the food exotic and unusual, it's colorful as well. reflecting its multi-ethnicity. "The restaurant is so colorful, I want the food to be just as colorful," says Jensen.

Jensen has also refined a technique that allows him to blend a variety of flavors and still keep the sauces light enough to not overpower an entree, such as in the duck breast marinated and oak-grilled with banana currant sauce or the Waterfront Stir-Fry of scallops, shrimp and fish in a Thai mushroom sauce over crispy Oriental noodles.

A recent visit had The Nose savoring Jensen's Thai Pizza, a sizzling concoction brimming with chicken, roasted peppers. cheeses and — surprise — Mandarin orange wedges, which gave the pizza a slight sweetness and piquancy. The crust was thin and not too doughy, as some pizzas can get. There's also a Vegetarian Pizza with a firecracker sauce that sounds tantalizing.

My dining companion on one visit had Sea Scallops in jade sauce served over red chili linguini that was as appealing to the eye as it was to the palate. On another occasion, the Fresh Ahi Salad special highlighted the menu's diversity, fresh grilled ahi over a bed of Carmel Valley greens with a tangy soy-based Oriental dressing.

Appetizers (called "Small Plates" on the menu), abound, from a Rim Shot (an oyster shooter "rimmed" with sake) and sashimi to Oriental Ceviche, Catamaran Quesadilla (jack cheese, shrimp and mango salsa), and Red Chili Linguine, which is tossed with an Asian pesto sauce.

Desserts included the house specialty, Hula Pie (a cool combination of macadamia nut ice cream and fudge sauce), Key Lime Cheesecake, Tempura Fried Bananas, Chocolate Rum Torte and something dubbed Haupia, cocoanut milk pudding surrounded by raspberry sauce.

Dining at Islands is liking taking a whirlwind culinary tour of the tropics, with China, Japan and California tossed in as a bonus. As Jensen says, "I want to offer people a variety and an opportunity to feel these places. I want to take them there one bite at a time."

Happy dining.
